A PROPOSAL FOR KASTEEL GEMERT EINDHOVEN, CURIO COLLECTION BY HILTON

A Collection for Kasteel Gemert

The Light of Seven Centuries — Dutch heritage in a contemporary hand

A concept for a fourteenth-century castle entering a new chapter: Dutch heritage, light and time itself, expressed in a contemporary hand.

WINDMILL AT DUSK GALLERY DUTCH ART

01 — THE OPPORTUNITY

Seven centuries of history deserve a collection that adds a new chapter, not a costume.

Kasteel Gemert is being transformed with rare care: a fourteenth-century castle, a design-led renovation by Studio Piet Boon and the Netherlands' first Curio Collection by Hilton. A collection here should honour the depth of the place without imitating the past. We propose Dutch light, heritage colour and time itself, expressed in a contemporary hand.

01

Heritage, not historicism

Reference the past with respect, but never as pastiche.

02

Quiet confidence

Art that sits within a refined interior instead of competing with it.

03

A reason to return

A collection can give guests a reason to stay longer, explore Brabant and come back.

THE HOURGLASS OF LIGHT

02 — THE CONCEPT

The Light of Seven Centuries

DUTCH HERITAGE IN A CONTEMPORARY HAND

The collection follows the castle's own timeline: from the deep, candlelit tones of its oldest halls to the clear light of the Golden Age and the calm of the new spa. Each work draws on Dutch visual heritage, from windmills and Delft blue to the tulip, and translates it into a contemporary, quietly luxurious language that rewards a second look.

01

Time as a theme

A signature work about time and light for the great hall: a fitting centrepiece for a castle that has seen seven centuries.

02

Brabant & the Low Countries

Landscape and heritage subjects that connect the castle to its region and to Dutch art history.

03

Calm for the spa

Soft cobalt fields for the spa and pool, chosen for stillness rather than spectacle.
